

GSO Officers
Chosen for '69

Gamma Sigma Omega elected new officers for the '68-'69 term. The new officers are Sandra Pruitt, president; Sandy Bamburg, vice-president; Bonnie Allen, secretary; Janet McNiece, treasurer; and Vange Lorant, parliamentarian.

The new officers were installed at a Mother-Daughter banquet held at Jue's Restaurant on May 7. Judge Gorman Taylor spoke to the girls and their mothers on the importance of belonging.

Chosen by the board of directors and officers in a secret ballot as the girls who had contributed the most to Gamma were Kennie Kitchens and LaJuana Myers. Kennie was chairman of the project committee and LaJuana did the art work for various Gamma projects. Jacquie Hunt, chairman of the Board of Directors, presented charms to the two girls. Mrs. Sylvia Goodman, sponsor, was presented with a corsage and a Gamma pin in appreciation for her guidance through the year.

On May 5th Gamma held a softball game at C. E. Byrd softball field. The teams were headed by Bonnie Allen and Brenda Collins. Bonnie Allen's team won the five inning contest.

A swimming party at Kathy Kramer's house for Gamma girls and their dates is planned to bring an end to Gamma's activities for this year. Gamma will not be active during the summer months but will open membership for interested girls in the fall semester.

Halls Speak
To BSU Group

Speaking to the May 1 "No-omspiration" meeting of the Baptist Student Union at LSU-S were Dr. John Hall and his wife Dr. Lillian Hall. The title of their talk was "How to Make Friends and Marry One."

They answered the question: "Who is a Friend?" "A friend is a person with whom you can communicate. A friend is a person who shares your happiness and is there when you are sad." Summing up, the Halls said, "You communicate through your companionship."

Coming activities for the BSU include the Student Week at Ridgecrest, North Carolina, from June 6-12; The Baptist Youth World Conference at Berne, Switzerland, July 22-27; and the Student Week at Glorietta, New Mexico, August, 22-28.

LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY IN SHREVEPORT

ALMAGEST

New officers of Gamma Sigma Omega for the coming year are Vange Lorant, parliamentarian; Janet McNiece, treasurer; Sandy Bamburg, vice president; Sandra Pruitt, president; and Bonnie Allen, secretary.

K Elects Officers; Initiates
Drive For Used Clothing

The Circle K club of LSU-S, winding up its activities for the year, initiated a clothing drive and installed officers for the 1968-69 school year.

The clothing drive got under way in the second week of May. With the aid of various clubs throughout the Shreveport area, the boys hope to collect at least two tons of clothing for the Zapotec and Hauve Indians of Mexico. The drive is expected to be completed by June 10. Circle K requests that old but usable clothing for boys ages 6-16 be contributed. Anyone intrested in giving clothes may contact Eddie Grounds or Randy Keyes.

At the banquet on May 6 officers for the coming year were installed. Assuming his post as president was Eddie Grounds and as vice-president, Steve White. Other officers installed were Ken Irvin, secretary; and Ronnie Edmiston, treasurer.

Lee Payne, immediate past president of the group, was given an award of appreciation for his outstanding service to the club. In addition, Henry Princehouse and Dr. Bobby F. Dowden were made honorary members of Circle K.

Plans for the fall of '68 are underway. The Circle K will expand to a quota of 60 members. A major project will be to raise money to buy a tractor for the Mexican Training Mission in Corduras, Mexico. Receiving equal priority will be the making of arrangements of the District Circle K convention to be held next year in Shreveport. Circle K will also try to send representatives to the International Convention at Philadelphia.

Speaking of the club's success this year, Dr. Bobby Dowden, faculty sponsor, said, "We came a long way and fulfilled one of our two aims, to become best in our district and to be International Club of the Month. Next year we'll be best in our district." Dowden also said, "I'm proud, very proud of this club."

English Teachers Attend Conference

English teachers from the branch campuses in Shreveport, Alexandria, Eunice, and New Orleans attended an Intercampus Conference of English Faculty members on the Baton Rouge campus, April 26.

Dr. Edward P. J. Corbett, chairman of the English Department at Ohio State University, discussed the different theories of teaching English composition, among other subjects, in a morning address.

In the afternoon, two discussion sessions were held. The sessions dealt with the problems of keeping English courses similar throughout the University in order to make it easier to have credits transferred from any of the different schools.

Those attending from LSU-S were Dr. Carole Tabor, Mrs. Marilyn Coil, Mrs. Nancy Sexton, Miss Jill Young, Mrs. Evelyn Herring, Mr. David Lawson, and Dr. Moriece Gleason, chairman of the Department.

Students receiving their copies of the first issue of the LSU-S yearbook, the Bagatelle, are Graham Harvey, Felix Stellman, and Paul Carey.

Yearbooks
Arrive

The Bagatelle, LSU-S first yearbook, arrived on campus on May 8 and became immediately available to the students through the business office.

Students who have registered for both semesters may obtain their yearbooks upon presentation of their student identification cards in the business office. Those who have registered for one semester may obtain a copy by paying $4.00

The name of the book Bagatelle means "bits and pieces" and is a 96 - page publication showing the beginning of academic life at the new school.

Highlights of the book are the revelation of Jacquie Hunt as Miss LSU-Shreveport and Maria Hanges as Miss Bagatelle. Runners-up were Becky Smith, Sandy Bamburg, Kennie Kitchens, Patty Hodge, Jacquelyn Bain, Madeline Bolin, Nancy Trowbridge, Janet McNiece, Pat McGuire, Dorothy Rhodes, Diane Fong, and Janet Stevenson.

The book is dedicated to Dean Donald Shipp.

Johnnie West served as editor of the yearbook; Jerry Montgomery as assistant editor; Barney Barnwell, photographer; and Mrs. Nancy Sexton, advisor.

Students who are interested in working on the yearbook and on the newspaper for next year may obtain applications for the yearbook staff from Mrs. Nancy Sexton in Room 210 and applications for the newspaper staff from Mrs. Evelyn Herring in Room 214.

Thanks

by Tara O'Brien

With the last issue of the Almagest, the staff and I would like to express our gratitude and appreciation to the readers for their patience and understanding.

Everything in its beginning stages has its ups and downs. The Almagest has definitely been no exception. We, the staff, have tried to the best of our ability to present a paper that would be newsy and interesting to the readers. However, we have made our mistakes and had our difficulties. So, to those of you whom we offended, misquoted, ignored, etc. ; we apologize. Believe me, it was nothing personal.

There were times when we debated whether or not to distribute some issues that seemed to us "unbearably off." Oddly enough, those were the times we received so many compliments. Then there were other times when an issue was very well done and there was little response one way or the other. That just shows how it all balances out eventually. However, to the "chronic critics", I have a special word: if you think you can improve the paper, then feel absolutely free to apply to work on the paper next year. Good, knowledgeable, hard working people are always needed.

I think an expression of special thanks should be paid to the faculty sponsor, Mrs. Evelyn Herring. No one ever hears about the lady behind the scenes. But the fact is Mrs. Herring has pulled us out of many a hole. And if for no other reason, she deserves recognition for putting up with such a temperamental editor. Thanks should also be paid to the Registrar's Office for their contributions and willingness to help nervous reporters. And I would like to thank Dean Donald E. Shipp, Mrs. Lurleen Dark, and Colonel Isaac F. Bonifay, counselors, for their encouraging words and loyal support throughout the year.

With this we end till the fall semester and hope for bigger and better things, especially more news and more reporters, next year.

Current Controversy

by Tara O'Brien

There has been a lot of noise made lately around the campus about the extension of LSU-S to a four year college. According to an article appearing in a recent edition of the Shreveport Times, discussion of the possibility may be delayed indefinitely.

From the sound of things around here, I'd say the need is now. The students attending LSU-S now and those who will attend it in the near future are the people most affected by this change in events. Needless to say, it is less expensive attending a four-year college in your own town. And each student has his own personal reasons for wanting to remain here to finish his education. Those who are planning to go elsewhere next semester should consider this change too as it will affect their city. Then there are the adult students who have homes and families to consider. Eventually LSU-S will probably be made four years, but what do these people attending classes here do now?

Everyone in Shreveport will be affected in some way if LSU-S is made a four-year college and soon. The sooner it offers students a chance to get a degree, the sooner dormitories will be built and people from out of town will be interested in LSU-S. With more people, Shreveport will profit economically and grow. Some of these people may decide to make Shreveport their home after graduation , too. A four-year school makes a lot more difference in a city than a two-year school.

So if you're disturbed with how things are turning out, voice your opinion. A revolution isn't necessary, but letters and petitions to the right people could make a difference if there were enough of them. It's your school and your city! Support it.

Three Receive Promotions

Three members of the faculty of Louisiana State University in Shreveport have been promoted in rank, according to a recent announcement made by Dean Donald E. Shipp.

Promoted to the rank of assistant professor were Mrs. Shirley Brown, foreign language; Mr. Hubert D. Humphreys, social science; and Mr. Todd Y.

Tillman, business administration.

"Why did God make women so beautiful and yet so dumb?" asked George of his wife. "Well," she said "He made us beautiful so you would love us and dumb so we would love you."

Tara's Tidbits

by Tara O'Brien

Mrs. Lurline Dark, counselor, asked that we express her appreciation to the Student Government Association officers. She said, "I think the SGA officers have done a very good job. They have carried out their responsibilities and have been a pleasure to work with."

Congratulations to all the LSU-S organizations for their outstanding work. What they've accomplished this first year of the existence of LSU-S will be the basis for what will be accomplished in future years.

The Almagest staff commends the staff of the Bagatelle for the excellent job they did on the yearbook. Should the staff been more experienced, it is doubtful that a better job could have been done.

Best wishes to Miss Jill Young, English instructor, on her coming marriage, Saturday, May 25. She will not be with us next year but will be living in Washington, D.C.

"Here Comes Everybody." Any LSU-S student, all LSU-students.....

Faculty Facts: Speech Department

Dr. Lillian Hall of the LSU-S Speech Department received her B.A. degree from Northwestern State College, her M.S. degree from Oklahoma State University, and her Ph.D. from Louisiana State University. She has gained teaching experience from Stonewall High School of DeSoto Parish and from the Baton Rouge campus of Louisiana State University. She has been Administrator of Private Schools in the East Baton Rouge Parish and is a member of the Speech Association of America, the American Association of University Women, Phi Lambda Pi, and the First Baptist Church. Dr. Hall enjoys theater, ballet, her two-year old granddaughter and "the pioneering aspect of helping to build a great university branch."

Mr. Dalton L. Cloud, also of the Speech Department, obtained his B.A. and M.A. at Louisiana Tech and is a Ph.D. candidate at Louisiana State University. He has served as a high school teacher in Caddo Parish at Fair Park High School for nine years. He has also served as a Supervising Teacher for Centenary College, as an Instructor for Louisiana Tech at Barksdale Air Force Base, and as a teaching graduate assistant at Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge. Mr. Cloud is a member of Louisiana Teachers Association, Louisiana Speech Association, and Speech Association of America, and indulges in most outdoor activities such as hunting and fishing.

Health and Physical Ed. Department

Dr. James D. Bates is an assistant professor in the Health and Physical Education Department. Dr. Bates received his B.S. degree from Louisiana Tech and his master of education from Northwestern State College. His doctor of education was obtained at LSU.

His teaching experience includes coaching and teaching in Pelican High School and in Athens High School. He also taught at LSU as a graduate assistant and in 1966 taught at LSU-Alexandria.

For hobbies and special interests, Dr. Bates names fishing, golf, and tennis. Commenting on LSU-S he says, "Many things indicate that LSU-S has great potential for growth and should develop into an outstanding degree-granting college."

Agriculture Department

Dr. John G. Hall, assistant professor of Agricultural Science at LSU-S, received his B.S. degree from the University of Southwest Louisiana and M.S. degree from Oklahoma State University. In completing his education, Dr. Hall received his Ph.D. degree from Louisiana State University. He has taught short courses in animal physiology and anatomy. Ranging among his special interests are livestock and horticulture. In presenting quotable quotes, Dr. Hall states: "The growth and acceptance of LSU-S during its first year of operation indicates the great need for an institution such as ours. The culture of northwest Louisiana is based on agriculture with a generous portion of the fine arts. One of our goals is to contribute to the enrichment and continuation of this heritage, and continuation of this heritage."

Student Personalities: "Here Comes Everybody"

As the darkened mass rises in the East and the cock stares at you with its finger arrowed into your face, "Here Comes Everybody." Tennyson believes you to be a part of all you've met. He sailed "beyond the baths of western stars" and if you've done any traveling in miles, minds, or imagination, the starting and finishing points of your travels stretch poles apart. If you travel in a maze, your sojourn ends differently. The sum of parts total a whole, the whole having broken parts. The herald of truth is looking for his name. Narcissus sat by the rippling pond pleased over his reflected identity. If you are good and bad, wearing curls upon your forehead, you're also part of everyman. You're most people and most of all, yourself. The rest you fill out.

"People! flung wide and far, born into toil, struggle, blood and dreams, among lovers, eaters, drinkers, workers, loafers, fighters, players, gamblers. Here are iron workers, bridge-men, musicians, sandhogs, miners, builders of huts and skyscrapers, jungle hunters, landlords, and the landless, the loved and the unloved, the lonely and abandoned, the brutal and the compassionate - one big family hugging close to the ball of Earth for its life and being.

In a seething of saints and sinners, winners or losers, in a womb of superstition, faith, genius, crime, sacrifice, here is the People, the one and only source of armies, navies, work-gangs, the living flowing breath of the history of nations, ever lighted by the reality or illusion of hope."

and his postdoctorate from Columbia University. He has also attended the University of Arkansas, University of Georgia, and Cornell University. Dr. McNiece's teaching career includes Cornell University, and Baldwin College. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi and Alpha Zeta honorary fraternities. Dr. McNiece has written numerous articles and pamphlets; the latest published was a report: "A Research Report on Two-Year Colleges and the Professional Societies." Presently he is serving as consultant for two local manufacturing firms and is active on the following committees: Chairman, Courses and Curricula Committee, LSU-S; Member, Courses and Curricula Committee, LSU System; Member, Selection Committee for Distinguished Faculty Fellowships, LSU System; Chairman, Flower and Gift Fund Committee, LSU-S; and Charter member, East Shreveport Rotary Club. Among Dr. McNiece's special interests are football, camping, gardening, and traveling. Of LSU-S, Dr. McNiece makes this comment: "Louisiana State University in Shreveport made a very auspicious beginning and has a promising future. It enables many students to attend college that would have otherwise not been able to do so. LSU-S is a most important asset to Shreveport and the surrounding area and this will be even more evident as the course offerings expand and the enrollment increases.

Mr. Todd Y. Tillman, another member of the business department, received his B.S. degree from East Tennessee State University of Florida in Gainesville, Florida. Mr. Tillman has been among the faculty of the University of Florida, Centenary College, Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and East Tennessee State University. Listed among his outside interests are travel, camping, nature study, and wildlife. In his acknowledgement of the need for LSU-S, Mr. Tillman states: "Area residents, business leaders, state officials and the students and staff of LSU-S have written many words about the "need" of this area for a state-supported institution. First year enrollments bear out the validity of these statements. Now we need to address ourselves

Newly-elected president of the Home Economics and Agricultural Club is Robert Gill. Other officers elected but not shown are Edward Littleton, vice-president; and Tommy Sally, secretary.

Gill Is Elected To Head Ag Club

Members of the Home Economics and Agriculture Club installed officers for the 1968-'69 school year at a banquet held May 6 at El Chico Restaurant.

Robert Gill, the current vice-president, was elected president; Edward Littleton, vice-president; and Tommy Sally, secretary.

According to Dr. John Hall, faculty sponsor, club activities were interrupted at mid-semester when a number of the club members, including President Donnie Young, were called into the Armed Forces. Yet the club has by no means been defunct.

Plans for the coming year call for developing a better method of operation including the writing of a constitution and obtaining top speakers for the group. Expressing optimism for the club's future, Dr. Hall said, "I think the club has the potential for growth and service in developing interest for the school in this area."

Students Slate Summer Study In Mexico City

LSU-S students Lynn Sullivan and Tara O'Brien will be two of about forty students participating in the LSU Summer Study Trip to Mexico City this summer. Each will be taking approximately six accredited hours.

Students will register June 3 on the Main Campus. On June 4 at 12:15 p.m. participants will leave the Moisant International Airport in New Orleans and will arrive in Mexico City at 2:21 p.m. Then they will proceed to the homes where they will be staying. Arrangements have been made for them to stay in carefully selected private homes in attractive residential sections near the classroom building and downtown Mexico City.

Classes will begin Wednesday June 5. They will be held Monday through Friday in the morning. Weekends, afternoons, and evenings have been left free for further study and special excursions. The courses will be taught by instructors from LSU.

The program ends August 1 when they return to New Orleans.

Coil To Sponsor European Tour

Passports for those people planning to visit Europe with Mrs. Marilyn Coil, sponsor of the Students Abroad Tour, were received recently, according to an announcement made by Mrs. Coil.

Receiving their passports were Miss Gail Southerland, LSU-S German instructor; Linda Daniel, Terry Hansen, and Mariette Bernard, LSU-S students; Daniel Middleton, a student of Louisiana Tech; and Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Coil.

The group will depart from New York on the Lufthansa German Airline on June 9. Twenty-two days later they would have visited eight different countries and be returning to the United States by way of Amsterdam. Their itinerary includes Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Liechtenstein, Italy, France, and England.

to the larger and more important question: "How are we to meet the challenges of our existence?" The real need is for better-trained and better educated citizens who are capable of analyzing the problems of our society—citizens who will have the art and the skill to advance solutions. We owe our physical plant to planners, our students to individuals and parents who trust us with their most precious possession—human lives. Let us, student and staff alike, make the most of every hour that we spend together in the classroom. Let us justify our existence by combining teaching with talent and interest to produce a better community and nation. Only then is the "need" fulfilled.

Mrs. Opal Menefee, typing instructor at LSU-S received her B.S. degree from Louisiana Tech and her M.B.A. degree from Louisiana State University. She has been on the faculty of Northeast Louisiana State College, Louisiana State University, and Centenary College. Mrs. Menefee serves as a Sunday School teacher in the Adult Department of Shreve City Baptist Church. Her special interests include her five children and collecting artifacts and coins.

Biology Club Elects Officers

David Warren, a pre-med major, was elected president of Lambda Sigma Upsilon, the biology club, for the 1968-69 school year.

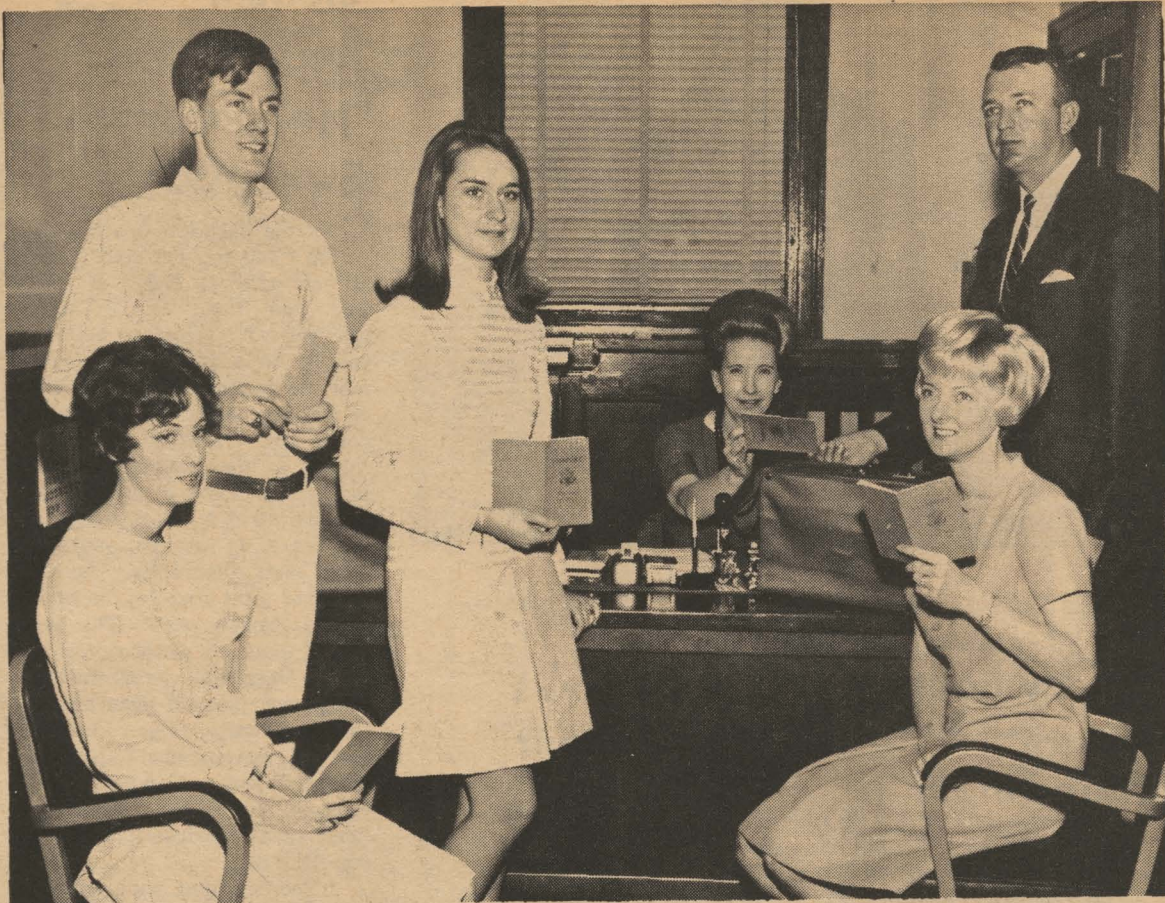

Other elected officers were Maria Garcia, secretary; Johnny Dunham, vice-president; and Larry Johnson, treasurer.

To end the current school activities, the members held a cook-out at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Hubble, faculty sponsor, on May 13. At that time, Steve Thomas, out-going president, was presented a gavel as a symbol of his office.

Of the club's performance for the year, Mrs. Hubble said, "I think the club has done well. It was a small group but a very enthusiastic one."

"Excuse me for coming up to the door to get your daughter," explained the young suitor to his lady love's mother, "but my horn isn't working."
